

Online-Vortrag

„Politics in China: From Personalist to Party-based Regime - and back?“

Felix Wiebrecht

(The Chinese University of Hong Kong)

In the shadow of its massive economic growth, China has also undergone far-reaching political reform under its previous leaders. They have ensured collective decision-making and allowed the regime and the ruling CCP to institutionalize. However, under Xi Jinping, the country appears to return to increasingly centralized and personalized rule.

Mittwoch, 19. Januar 2022, 11:00 Uhr

Felix Wiebrecht is a PhD Candidate in the Department of Government and Public Administration at The Chinese University of Hong Kong. His research interests include authoritarian politics and especially the role of formal institutions such as legislatures in dictatorships with a regional focus on China. His work has been published in journals such as Policy & Politics, Democratization, and Global Media and China.

Bitte melden Sie sich unter folgender E-Mail-Adresse mit Betreff „China“ an:
sekretariat-vr.ipv@uni-rostock.de

Eine Veranstaltung des Instituts für Politik- und Verwaltungswissenschaften der Universität Rostock.

www.ipv.uni-rostock.de